

	Total Depravity	Unconditional Election	Limited Atonement	Irresistible Grace	Perseverance of the Saints
Definition	Fallen man is neither able nor inclined to do himself any saving good.	God chose some men for salvation without respect to any good in them, and passed by others.	On the cross, Christ made full atonement for the sins of all the Father had given him.	All those who are elected and redeemed, will be effectually called into the church.	No one who is elect, redeemed, and effectually called can finally fall away from the faith.
Apologetic	Every man is not always as bad as he could be, but is defiled by sin in every part.	This is not “unfair” because no one technically deserves God’s mercy.	His death was sufficient for all, but is made efficient only for the elect.	God does not drag us kicking and screaming, but changes our will so that we desire salvation.	Those who appear to fall away were technically “never of us” (cf. 1 John 2:19, Romans 9:6).
Key verse	Romans 3:10-11, “There is none righteous, no, not one: there is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God.”	Romans 9:15, “I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion.”	John 10:14-15, “I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine... and I lay down my life for the sheep.”	John 10:27-28, “My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life...”	Philippians 1:6, “being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ”
